

Lymm Photographic Society

PRESS RELEASE

Scroll down to see some of the coverage this press release generated in the local press.

In mid-June, 15 members of the Lymm Photographic Society were lucky enough to spend a highly entertaining evening at the Gauntlet Birds of Prey Eagle and Vulture Park near Knutsford.

As one of their summer outings, the Society had organised an exclusive evening, to enable members to take photographs of various birds of prey, both in-flight and statically outdoors (and inside when the rain fell towards the end of the evening). Initially some members found it a challenge to photograph the more fast-flying birds but practice makes perfect, and as the evening went on, photographs improved, with members sharing learning tips and techniques amongst each other. The Gauntlet staff were superb in tailoring the experience specifically to the Society's requirements.

Amongst the birds photographed were Sebastian (a Golden Eagle), Lumpy (a Great Grey Owl), Wispa (a Kestrel) and Franklin (a Bald Eagle). Other birds that members were able to capture on film included American Black Vultures, African Hooded Vultures, a Tawny Owl, a Golden Eagle and a Peregrine/Lanner Falcon.

This was a unique experience which provided an opportunity to develop photographic skills and which gave members the chance to try out an aspect of photography slightly out of the ordinary. The Society will be looking at photographs taken at the outing in September and anyone is welcome to come along to that (or any) meeting.

The Lymm Photographic Society meets twice a month (except August), at 7.30pm Wednesday evening as in the Spread Eagle, in the centre of Lymm. Visitors and members of all abilities always welcome. See <http://www.lymmphotosoc.org.uk/> for more information.

More information about the Gauntlet Birds of Prey Eagle and Vulture Park can be found at <http://www.gauntlet.info/index.html>.

PRESS COVERAGE

Lymm Life – August 2016 web and printed edition

Snappers get up close with birds of prey

MEMBERS of Lymm Photographic Society were able to get up close with some of the fastest flying birds on earth when they arranged a special evening at a birds-of-prey park.

The evening enabled members to take photographs of various birds, in flight and statically.

At first, some members found the most fast-flying birds a challenge, but as the evening went on they picked up tips from each other and the photography got better.

Among the birds photographed were Sebastian (a Golden Eagle),

Lumpy (a Great Grey Owl), Wispa (a Kestrel) and Franklin (a Bald Eagle). Other birds that members were able to capture on film included American Black Vultures, African Hooded Vultures, a Tawny Owl, a Golden Eagle and a Peregrine/Lanner Falcon.

Lymm Photographic Society meets twice a month (except August) at 7.30pm Wednesday evenings at the Spread Eagle.

Visitors and members of all abilities are always welcome. See www.lymmphotosoc.org.uk/ for more information.

Lymm Pages – July/August 2016 printed edition

Lymm Photographic Society

In mid-June, 15 members of the Lymm Photographic Society were lucky enough to spend a highly entertaining evening at the Gauntlet Birds of Prey Eagle and Vulture Park near Knutsford.

As one of their summer outings, the Society had organised an exclusive evening, to enable members to take photographs of various birds of prey, both in-flight and statically outdoors (and inside when the rain fell towards the end of the evening). Initially some members found it a challenge to photograph the more fast-flying birds but practice makes perfect, and as the evening went on, photographs improved, with members sharing learning tips and techniques amongst each other. The Gauntlet staff were superb in tailoring the experience specifically to the Society's requirements.

Amongst the birds photographed were Sebastian (a Golden Eagle), Lumpy (a Great Grey Owl), Wispa (a Kestrel) and Franklin (a Bald Eagle). Other birds that members were able to capture on film included American Black Vultures, African Hooded Vultures, a Tawny Owl, a Golden Eagle and a Peregrine/Lanner Falcon.

This was a unique experience which provided an opportunity to develop photographic skills and which gave members the chance to try out an aspect of photography slightly out of the ordinary. The Society will be looking at photographs taken at the outing in September and anyone is welcome to come along to that (or any) meeting.

The Lymm Photographic Society meets twice a month (except August), at 7.30pm Wednesday evening as in the Spread Eagle, in the centre of Lymm. Visitors and members of all abilities always welcome. See <http://www.lymmphotosoc.org.uk/> for more information.

More information about the Gauntlet Birds of Prey Eagle and Vulture Park can be found at <http://www.gauntlet.info/index.html>.

